LAMOILLE COUNTY.

The trial of Frank Shaw for the murder of Dr. George Hoffman leut May, opened on Monday in Windsor county court, Judge Loveland Munson presiding. Sixty petit jurors were present, from whom a full panel was chosen and duly sworn. This occupied the afternoon session. The State began putting in svidence today.

Shaw came into court leaning on the arms of the sheriffs. He took a seat beside his counsel, Gilbert A. Davis of Windsor, and manifested up particular interest in the proceedings.

The respondent walks with some difficulty, but his weakness is due partly to lack of exercise. He way somewhat exhausted after the session in the heated court room while the jury was being secured. The State is represented by State's Attorney John O. Bargent, who took such an active part in the pursuit of the desperadoes, and W. B. C. Stickney of Bethel.

ORANGE COUNTY.

A Voice from the Recent Convention. Side Lights on the Proceedings. An Appeal to the Good Citizenship.

Editor of the Watchman:—Will you kindly allow space to a "voice from Orange county" in regard to the Orange county convention and the effect it will have upon the choice of a United States Senator when the situation is theroughly understood?

Orange county is a small part of the State, but the honor and distinction she has won and enjoyed as the home of our immortal Morrill, entitles one of her sons (although not an editor or politician) to express his opinion in regard to the spirit that moved the delegates in Republican convention assembled at Chelsea, June 30, where the one vital question to be acted upon was the choice of two Senators to represent the county on the all important question of choosing Mr. Morrill's successor.

Permit ms to say that Orange county is for Dillingham for United States Senator, the resolutions of the county convention to the contrary notwithstanding. Why were resolutions favorable to General Gront the contrary notwithstanding. Why were resolutions favorable to General Gront pessed? William B. Visil of Randolph was a candidate for Senator from the west side of the county. Although possibly not pledged it was understood, on good authority, that he was a Dillingham man. A vigorous canvass was made for him on this ground, which resulted in the choice of eighteen delegates (nine of whom were from his own town) out of the forty-two delegates in the Randolph district. After the delegates of the east side were chosen, it was found a majority of them favored Grout for Senator, due largely to the fact that but little effort was made to have Dillingham men out at the primaries.

majority of them tayored Grout for Senator, due largely to the fact that but little effort was made to have Dillingham men out at the primaries.

Judge Dickey of Washington, a man of recognized ability and unqualified republicanism, had secured a large majority of the delegates of the west side, and was known to be a Dillingham man. What was Mr. Viall to do? He realized that if he stood on the same platform with Judge Dickey the Republicans, if left to follow the dictates of their heart", would vote for the Republican out of principle in preference to the Republican out of principle in preference to the Republican out of policy. His sagacious brain quickly conceived a new idea. He fully understood the contracts with his eighteen west side delegates and knew they would follow him whether he led them on to victory for Dillingham or otherwise. He made a personal visit to the east side delegates and soon after it was openly talked by the Grout delegates that Mr. Viall's election to the Senate must be secured, as he had threatened, if "turned down," he would be the next member of the General Assembly from Randolph and would "cut Grout's throat in the House." It certainly looks as though his nomination was secured through fear of what he might do if his path was crossed. For if the friends of Grout had faith in his professed loyalty wouldn't they have sent Judge Dickey to the Senate muzzled by a resolution instructing him how to vore, and left this man of boasted strength and influence, who is posing before the voters of Orange county as a political Hercules, before whom the multitudes must sway, free to accept an election to the House of Representatives where General Grout will need men of influence? If he was looked upon as such a formidable foe how welcome he must have been as a friend.

If there was no money in it, would you, Mr. Editor, feel like taking a man to your must have been as a friend.

If there was no money in it, would you, Mr. Editor, feel like taking a man to your bosom who threatened to "cut your throat" if you did not? Wouldn't you fear a change of heart after he was "buttoned in"? Will the following interesting episode throw any light on the question of why Viall was nominated and why Grout resolutions were passed at the Orange county convention? After Mr. Viall was placed in nomination, a delegate who is well known as a gentleman of truth and honor, walked out before the convention where he could look the Viall forces squarely in the face and frankly made the statement in language that all could understand, that after he was chosen a delegate he was approached by a prominent Democrat and offered ediby a minent Democrat and offered ediby a prominent Democrat and onered money if he would vote for William B. Viall. Of course a denial wer awaited in breathless silence, but none came. Assent to the truth of the statement, and the sup position that the messenger was sent from the Via'l headquarters was given by the circumstance that Viall and his spokesman the Viall headquarters was given by the circumstance that Viall and his spokesman remained motionless and dumb.

Was the like ever witnessed before in open convention? Will resolutions passed under such circumstances add strength to a candidate for the highest office within the gift of the people of the State? Had it not been for the Grout and Viall deal, which allied Viall's Dillingham men with the Grout faction, the resolution endorsing Grout could not have passed. Surely, the circumstances attending the Grout and Viall canvass are revolting in the extreme. If this is the line of work necessary to promote the interests of Gen. Grout, the people, outside of the politicians and those seeking political gain, will not endorse it. Vermont has always held a high place in the national Senate, and the venerable Judge Ross, Mr. Morrill's successor by appointment, in these closing scenes of the nineteenth century is reflecting credit upon himself and honor upon the State.

The person chosen by the freemen of Vermont as Mr. Morrill's successor will enter upon the duties of his office at the dawn of a new century. Let the choice be one that shall not in any way detract from the high standard the State has always enjoyed.

Vermont has a son in every way qualified, bign standard the State has always enjoyed.

Vermont has a son in every way qualified, one of whom words of commendation by the writer would seem out of place. Let the freemen of Vermont, upon whom rests the responsibility of making the choice, step out into the pure atmosphere, free from the tainted breath of politicians, and ask the question, Whom shall we send to the national Senate,

"That our honors may with increase of ages gro As streams roll down enlarging while they flow," And the answer will come from the ele-ments, and echo and re echo from hill top to hill top, William P, Dillingham! A VOICE FROM ORANGE COUNTY.

DILLINGHAM AND THE FARMERS.

The Essex Record, a Grout organ, undertakes to make capital for its patron, by misrepresenting Mr. Duilingham's acts and votes on the measures pending in the Legislature of 1881—of which body he was a votes on the measures pending in the Legislature of 1831—of which body he was a member—relating to "the manufacture and sale of cleomargarine and other substitutes for butter." Mr. Dillingham was the Representative from Waterbury. The bill citied by the Record was introduced into the House early in the session. It proposed to place a tax of 15 cents on each pound of the substitute for butter made, and taxed the wholesale dealer $10,000 as a license fee, and the retailer $2,000, imposing also, a penalty of $500 upon any person who sold such produces without a license. The committee on agriculture reduced the license fees to $6,000 and $1,000 respectively.

When the bill came before the House upon its final passage the question was raised that the tax and license fees were so heavy that the measure was prohibitive in its effect, and if prohibitive, then vacconstitutional; and if unconstitutional, of no protection either to the butter makers or consumers.

In voting against the bill Mr. Dillingham Mrs. Wallace Chalmers of Groton with

In voting against the bill Mr. Dillingham gave as his reasons those above stated. He assured the friends of the measure that he was in full sympathy with their purpose to protect the butter makers of Vermont, but that in his judgment this measure would be a dead letter. The ground taken by him was supported by the votes of six out of nine of the judiciary committee, among whom were W. H. Walker of Ludlow, chairman, who was soon after made one of the judges of the supreme court, by W. B. C. Stickney of Bethel, R. C. Abell of West Haven, Herbert F. Brigham of Bakersfield and Mr. Brownell of Pownal, but the bill passed the House, was sent to the Senate, referred to the committee on agriculture, which consisted of Ansel L. Hill of Hubbardton, Robert C. Cristy of Johnson and H. B. Williams of Monkton, all of whom tore farmers. This committee would not indorse the measure and reported it back to the Senate without expression of opinion on their part, and the third reading of the bill in the Senate was, of course, refused without a roll call.

The fear entertained by those not favoring the measure, that it would have been of without a roll call.

The fear entertained by those not favoring the measure, that it would have been of no protection either to the farmers or the people of Vermont, was soon after confirmed by the fact that acts of a similar nature were held to be unconstitutional by the higher courts of New York and of some of the other States.

Soon after the defeat of this measure in the Senate, another bill was prepared and reported from the General Committee of the House, entitled, "An Act to Prevent Fraud in the Sale of Oleomargarine and Other Substances, as Butter," which read as follows:

Sec. 1. A person who knowingly sells or offers for sale, as butter, any oleomargarine butterine or article or substance resembling butter, and not made exclusively from milk or cream, and of which the oil or fat of animals, not produced from milk, is a component part, shall, for each such offense, be fined five hundred dollars; and on trial for such offense, proof of the sale or offer for sale shall be prima facle evidence of knowledge. Half of the penalty shall go to the complainant.—

Sec. 3. This act shall take effect from its passage.

This bill was warmly supported by Mr.
Dillingham, passed both House and Senate,
and received the approval of the Governor,

Burmah Perkins of Providence, R. I., was the guest of Elkins Perkins, his father, over Sunday. Mr. Perkins has for the past six years been a member of the city council of Providence and is at present a member of the garbage committee. Providence is shown by the recent census to have a population of 172,030 and the expense per year for taking care of the garbage has been some $25,000, Mr. Perkins and the other members of his committee have just returned from Montreal, where they have been investigating the crematory system of destroying the garbage, and are so well pleased with its work they will recommend its use in Providence.

A special train of six Pullman sleepers arrived in this city at seven o'clock Saturday evening with the New Hampshire, Mrsschusetts and Bhode Island delegations to the national democratic convention at Kansas City on board. There were 101 in the party of which Col. Henry O. Kent of New Hampshire, Robert Treat Paine, Jr., of Massachusetts and ex-Gov. Davis of Rhode Island were prominent. Hon. W. S. McNary of Boston wes in charge of the arrangements and an hour was taken here for supper before proceeding to St. Albans, where they were joined by the Vermont delegation. Several of the local Democrats greeted the visitors at the Pavilion and a social half hour was ne used. The party planned to stop off at Niagara Falls for three hours on Sunday.

A. P. Weston, who for the past seven years has been employed and clark in the store of G. L. Nichols, has finished work there to account a position to provide the second to the successful year of its his tory. Besides being a social and moral force, always operating in the interests of the association, it has been a very manifest financial aid to the work during the year just ended. Indeed, without this hearty and material support the association would, at least the account of the control of the control of the control of the second to the work during the year. least, be seriously crippled. Few auxiliaries can make so fine a financial showing as the following: Total receipts for the year ending June 9, 85/118. This includes auxiliary dues. Dewey day lunch, cook book funds and musical extravaganza. Total expenses, including resulting power supplies. $450.00 including reading room supplies, $486.02. Amount paid the Young Men's Christian Association treasurer, $475.96. The few dues remaining unpaid would carry this latter sum over $500.

Hon. R. M. Harvey was a delegate to the recent "Boxer" convention in Orange county at Chelsea. Mr. Harvey strove valorously to secure the rejection, or the side-tracking, of the Gront resolution of instructions. His eloquence and force of appeal would have moved any hear't but the petrified organs of the "Boxers." Failing in his main purpose, he moved to amend the resolution, first by substituting the name of Ross in the place of Grout, then Prouty, then Dillingham, sustaining each motion by an appeal of characteristic force. But it was no go. The "Boxers" were obdurate. Motions to lay on the table or to amend were ruthlessly slaughtered, the iron jaws of Hod Bailey, set by the disaster to his patron, Page, in the first district, never relaxed. Finally the tension of the situation was relieved by a motion from a delegate in Hon. R. M. Harvey was a delegate to the was relieved by a motion from a delegate in the body of the house to amend the resolu-tion of instruction by inserting the name of R. M. Harvey in the place of W. W. G. out, and the convention laughed itself into good nature again, "Roney" making for the door with a smile on his countenance.
